What is the Aboriginal Early Years Support Service?

Healthier Parents and Children

We can help with information and practical support, and we can help you to learn daily life skills in your own home.

Some of the things we can help with are:

- Advice and ideas to help with parenting
- Information on what children do at different ages
- Immunisation information
- Budgeting
- Safety and hygiene
- Information about health issues
- Information about other services that can help

Aboriginal women supporting Aboriginal families

We work in ways that respect and support the cultural values of Aboriginal families, such as the importance of extended families.

Better functioning families

We work to build trusting relationships with families and we support the family as a whole.

Here are some of the services we offer:

- Home visits
- Phone support and information
- Working with other services to get the help a family needs
- Help with transport
- Support groups

How do I get started with the service?

You can contact the service yourself, or your doctor or child health service or other service provider can refer you.
